

Tokyo Olympics to proceed without international spectators due to COVID-19 concerns.

The decision was announced by the Japanese government and the International Olympic Committee on Saturday.

The move comes as Japan struggles to contain a recent surge in COVID-19 cases, with Tokyo under a state of emergency.

The decision will have a significant financial impact on the organizers, who were counting on revenue from ticket sales to offset the costs of hosting the Games.

Athletes will still be allowed to compete, but the absence of international fans is likely to dampen the overall atmosphere of the event. 70~100 中級
